

STEVE WARD'S PURPOSE - HELPING OTHERS FIND THEIR PURPOSE

Engaging Educational Leaders and Students by bringing the conversation of personal Purpose into the classroom to:

- intrinsically motivate adolescents and young adults in their education;
- inspire youth to examine their skills and interests to drive academic decisions;
- level the playing field to increase equality among youth of different abilities, ethnicities, cultures, social, and economic backgrounds;
- introduce Aspirational Data™ providing teachers, counselors, social workers and parents the insights to further guide their students;
- encourage people to pursue fulfilling careers by design, rather than by debt;

One of most important contributions Steve Ward makes to the discussion of Purpose-Driven Education is that most people wish to “help other people” with their profession when asked what they wish to do for a career. This innate drive stems from a universal desire to give and show love, and connect with others in a meaningful way. How we give and show love and connect with others is as unique as our individual fingerprints.
